

Short Biography

Ali Muhammad is a seasoned academic with over two decades of teaching, research, and leadership experience across Pakistan, the UK, and Canada. With a PhD from the University of Liverpool and postdoctoral training from the University of Calgary, he specializes in entrepreneurship, innovation, and organizational behavior. An HEC-approved PhD supervisor and editorial board member of a SCOPUS-indexed journal, he has led major research projects, published extensively, and played a key role in advancing academic development at the University of Peshawar. His career reflects a deep commitment to entrepreneurial scholarship and the mentorship of emerging researchers.